"I don’t believe the judicial system should be overriding what the state has voted on, explained Megan Davis, a former coach, recreation commissioner, and veteran of the first ballot in Ojai in 1978.

A portion of the 2005 amendment to the California Constitution ruled that same-sex couples can’t sue for the right to marry. “This is a question of whether or not marriage citizens have the right to marry a man and a woman, but I made the right decision and am proud of it,” Shorts said.

"If the price of oil goes to $105 a barrel they will streamline the process. Some operators are already advocating for a single well fracking spot to save money," Shorts said. "If you look around, there are more single well fracking spots at a certain point. It makes marriage a slippery slope. It makes marriage ruin your marriage. We have failed in our regulations, what we say to people who are same-sex couples. Basically the will of the people should be respected," Shorts said.

"This is a question of whether or not marriage regulations are being cut. DOE (Department of Energy) was asked about partial moratorium on fracking. It is worth considering, given public concern, that we need to say no (to fracking)." Shorts said. "We need to say, no (to fracking)."

Church will hold service day at Foster Park

This is an exciting opportunity for the community as we will be rehabilitating 33 camps that have been closed for the past eight years as well as doing key work throughout the park — it will serve as a great service experience for all ages, said Dennis MacKnight, event coordinator from the Ventura County Department of Social Services.

Volunteers will gather at Foster Park near Ojai from 8 a.m. to noon on Saturday, April 20, 2013, as part of a statewide Mormon volunteers to improve California's parks, trails and other public lands.

The project will be led by volunteers from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and community members living in Ventura, Ojai, Santa Paula and Fillmore.

Volunteers are encouraged to attend. The event coordinator asks that everyone wear work clothes and come prepared for outdoor activities. It is very important to the Ojai Valley Lavender Festival that volunteers help restore public lands.

This year marks the 20th anniversary of the Lavender Festival, an event that has educated the public about the benefits of lavender and its relevant to the Ojai community.

Approximately 250 volunteers and members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will be cleaning work clothes to help beautify and improve Ventura’s Foster Park on Saturday, as part of a statewide Mormon Helping Hands Community Service Day in partnership with the County of Ventura.

Painter to unveil latest work at Jester

"Visage," a solo exhibition featuring the works of the artist Duane Eells, is opening at The Village Jester in downtown Ojai on Saturday. An opening reception will be held at 7 p.m. At 7:30 p.m., Eells will unveil his latest work, "D. Gahan," a portrait of his wife, Cindy. The exhibition will run through July.

Eells was born in Los Angeles and has been an Ojai resident since 1988. He studied art and design at Cal State Humboldt and Victoria College as well as a number of workshops throughout Southern California. In the 1980s, Eells switched his focus to working at a variety of venues throughout Los Angeles and Ventura counties.

"I try to capture a certain moment in time that reveals the soul and emotion of those that I love the best," Eells said. "I am drawn to the emotional connection between the viewer and the subject of my paintings."

This exhibition is a true sentiment of his creative principles. The final painting, though, is created but it is tempered with attention to accuracy.

"This exhibition is a culmination of the past several years of painting," Eells said. "I am grateful to the Village Jester to give me this opportunity to share my work."

Visit www.eells.com to view more of Eells' work.

The reviews were universally terrific. So how many people have heard about “I Do! I Do!”? A musical that opened on Broadway in 1966 at the 46 Street Theater and ran for 569 performances starring Broadway superstars Mary Martin and Robert Preston who then took it on the road to more acclaim. Preston won a Tony for it.

Carol Burnett and Rock Hudson picked up the national tour and had more success. It was a smash in anyone’s book. But how many people have heard of 69 Preston free. The producers of the Harvey Schmidt/Tom Jones musical says community theater organizations are shy of it because it has only two people in the cast, but that means there are fewer friends and relatives to attend faithfully, not to mention that the show is quite difficult to cast and stage. The entire burden of the show falls on the two solo cast members, there are no chorus lines, no sub-plots, no comic characters to divert. The two principals carry the show, hardly ever leaving the stage, bringing props in and out and changing costumes as they age from 25 to 75 before our eyes.

But producers Ivan Kemper and Stuart Conover found the right actors to make what seems impossible possible. And the right director too. Marty Babayco, director of more than 20 Nordhoff High School’s spring musicals, says he’s blessed with the many talents of his stars Asunta Fleming and Scott White. They sing, they dance, they act some very dramatic scenes — they carry props, make quick changes and do it all while keeping the show lively. And they’re funny, too.

The musical was adapted by Schmidt and Jones from Jan de Hartog’s play “The Fourposter”, which starred Mary Martin and Robert Preston and Humor convex in 1943. The musical mirrors the play in that it tells the story of a marriage from the wedding day through the birth of their children, his affair, her depression, their reconciliation and the downsizing from their big New York townhouse. But this is no straight play.

Area kids prepare for Disney’s ‘The Little Mermaid Jr.’

Krista Kim / For the Ojai Valley News

Sevendy fifteen performers are currently preparing for Ojai Youth Entertainers’ production of Disney’s ‘The Little Mermaid Jr.’ The kids are singing, dancing and acting under the direction of Krista Kim, an Ojai-dwelling professional dancer and actor.

In their weekly classes all of the enrolled students receive a part which is tailored to their age and ability and spend three months learning their roles.

“The focus of this class is for our littlest performers on stage. We allow for a little more whimsy,” said instructor Krista Kim. “It is a high-energy show; we have an audience to sit down and enjoy a full-length musical. It offers a look at our performers on stage.”

For a complete list of dates and times for “The Little Mermaid Jr.” visit www.rubicontheatre.org or call 606-4300. To find out more about upcoming theatrical offerings and a list of upcoming summer camps and junior classes, visit www.ojaiarts.org or call 646-4300.

The Handel and Haydn Society, the revered period instrument orchestral ensemble from Boston, will make its Santa Barbara debut May 1 at 8 p.m. at UCSB Campbell Hall. Bernadette Peters has dazzled audiences and critics with her performances on television, in concert and on recordings, but she is perhaps best known as one of Broadway’s brightest stars. Nominated for seven Tony Awards, she has won two and seven Drama Desk Awards. Her 1999, she earned her third Tony, the Isabelle Stevenson Award, in honor of her charitable work with Broadway Barks!, which promotes the adoption of shelter animals. In 2012, she received her seventh Tony nod for her portrayal of Momma Rose in the revival of “Gypsy,” and her performance was captured on the Grammy award-winning Gypsy cast recording.

Peters began her performance career at the age of 3, and while still in her teens was in the national touring company of “Gypsy.” She made her Broadway debut in 1967 in “Johnny No- Trump,” and in 1968 starred with Joel Grey in “George M!,” earning a Theatre World Award, in honor of her portrayal of Josie Cohan. That same year, she received a Drama Desk Award for her performance in the hit show-stopping musical “Dames at Sea,” and in 1970 received her first Tony Award for her portrayal of Annie Oakley in the Broadway revival of “Annie Get Your Gun.” In 2003, she received her seventh Tony for her portrayal of Momma Rose in the revival of “Gypsy,” and her performance was captured on the Grammy award-winning Gypsy cast recording.

In 2012, she received her third Tony, the Isabelle Stevenson Award, in honor of her charitable work with Broadway Barks!, which promotes the adoption of shelter animals.

The group’s esteemed tradition of innovation and excellence began in the 19th century with the U.S. premiere of Handel’s “Messiah,” among other history-making feats. Now under the artistic direction of Harry Christophers, it internationally acclaimed Period Instrument Orchestra and Chorus has set the gold standard in the field of early music performance. In April and May, Handel & Haydn undertakes its first California tour since 1998, with a debut in Santa Barbara. Conductor Aisslinn Nosky soloists and leads the Grammy-winning orchestra in a concert featuring Vivaldi’s much-loved “The Four Seasons,” as well as works by Corelli, Geminiani, Locatelli, and Vivaldi. Aisslinn Nosky made her solo debut with H&H performing “The Four Seasons” in January 2012. The program also features a musical sampler of pieces written largely by expatriate Italian virtuosos who composed both at home in Italy and abroad in the capitals and artistic centers of Europe. English composers Charles Avison never lived in Italy but bowed his 12 concerto grossi on manuscript by the Italian composer Domenico Scarlatti. In the 17th and 18th centuries, many of Italy’s greatest composers were in prominent positions throughout Europe, resulting in widespread appreciation of Italian musical style. Their output had a profound influence on many other great composers not least, Bach, Handel and Mozart. The Handel and Haydn Society’s performance is presented by UCSB Arts & Lectures. Tickets are $35 for the public and $19 for UCSB students with a current student ID. For tickets or more information, visit www.ArtsAndLectures.ucsb.edu or call 893-3535.
