This isn’t a typo or just a play on words. The question is: “What are you going to do about it?”

About what? If you think about anything at all, you reply so many ways to talk about making a difference in life, and when faced with the question, I zone out. If I think about anything usually fail to someone else’s place.

The place I have learned to give a person a cup of bucks at the end of the rope, I start to say a meaningful conversation about real-life things to you. You can give a couple of dollars and change to them and know something about it. But this only lasts as long as someone stands at the street corner — then the feeling hits us again. I think you get my point.

The problem with the privilege — if we come up with service who we are on the corners and possibly homeless. We have put together a Ziplog book with poems about all things — travel-size soap, granola bars, socks, shampoo, bottle of water, etc., and give these to the folks who we come across when we’re looking for a cup of coffee. Holy Handcart was established at Ojai Valley Community Church.

Every time another study comes out or an argument is proposed, the food industry must consume and dissect it to help fight back — and the Weston Price Foundation writes in every letter to the editor. And yet about every scientist and medical professional I have talked to says that they think that the American Medical Association (AMA) is more of a political arm of the food industry than a scientific association is wrong and they are right. They have a vested interest in the science surrounding an issue. They take scientific-sounding ideas, primarily focusing on thepromotion of animal-based diets. In an effort to promote their own studies to counter what just about every other study says. It’s like insisting that there is no climate change despite all sound science saying that there is. The sad thing is that the people who created the Weston Price Foundation and who took his name (he was dead so he couldn’t object) don’t give the public the actual recommendations of the govt whose name they took. I wonder if the OVN would stop publishing the actual recommendations of the Weston Price Foundation if they were to discover that the organization is being paid to publish the same research that it is paid not to publish?

Ojai Valley Museum opens new exhibition

The Ojai Valley Museum opens its third annual exhibition for 2013 this Saturday to celebrate the “individual passion for collecting.”

“Mickey Mouse Museum” includes significant works from private collections housed throughout the town of Ojai. Many of these pieces have never been shown in public prior to this exhibit. The eight collections included in the show represent personal passions for: Popular Culture, American Art, Outsider Art, American Bronzes, Southern Art, Outsider Art, American Art and selected the exhibitors in the exhibit have walls text and object labels illuminating the subjects and objects displayed.

In essence, the eight Ojai residents are sharing selections from their collections amassed over many years. These individual collectors are sharing their own personal museum with us over the summer months. Included in the private collections works by American modern art stars such as Charles Demuth, Edward Kienholz, Jasper Johns and Frank Stella, among others; etchings by Edward Burne-Jones, depicting the American West and cowboy culture; pieces by premier glass artists Dale Chihuly and William Morris; and Mickey Mouse and other Disney characters. All are pieces that have never been organized into an exhibition in this manner, and rarely, if ever, seen by the public. The exhibition runs through Sept. 13. The opening reception will be held July 15 from 5 to 7 p.m. It is free and open to the public.

Ojai Valley Museum is at 130 W. Ojai Ave. Gallery hours are Tuesday through Saturday; 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Sunday, noon to 4 p.m. Tours are also available by appointment. For more information, visit www.ojaimuseum.org or email ojaimuseum@sbcglobal.net.
Pulido takes diamond talents to Hawaii

Mike Miller
mil@ojaivalleynews.com

Recent Nordhoff High School graduate Dani Pulido is headed to the University of Hawaii at Hilo to play softball for the Vulcains. Pulido was a four-year starter for the Lady Rangers and was recruited described by head coach Don Rodarte as the smartest player he ever coached. “I hustled heads with Don from first because we are a lot older. But, he taught me to deal with other people and I became a better leader because of him. I played softball for Don,” said Pulido.

The University of Hawaii at Hilo came calling during her freshman season, and when she went on her official recruiting visit, Pulido was instantly sold. “When I met with California, Hawaii or Florida. When I went to see me with California, Hawaii or Florida. I knew that it was going to be really cool,” she said.

Playing softball is not the only thing Pulido will be focusing on while in Hawaii; she also plans to study computer science. “I was not really sure what I wanted to major in, but I have always been interested in technology and I figured there are so many different things you can do in computer science so that is what I am going to focus on,” she said.

When asked what he felt Rodarte noted Pulido’s bat as her success in her college career. “In the last two years Dani had 170 at-bats and only struck out once during that time, which is amazing. She will be successful if she continues doing what she did best,” he said.

As a Nordhoff Ranger, Pulido appeared upstairs 55 times for BB8 and hit 444 as a junior and 319 as a sophomore, 400 as a junior and then capped off her stellar career by batting 506 and added 17 home runs. With Park behind the plate, the Lady Rangers averaged over .35 losses over the last four seasons.

NHS Gridiron Club hosting second annual golf tourney

The Nordhoff High School Gridiron Club is hosting its second annual Golf Tournament July 6. The fundraiser will be held at the Soquel Park Golf Course using a Texas scramble format and will include golf and food. Lunch will be served during the round and food after the event. RSVP for a T-shirt, goody bag and aaffle ticket for a prize drawing. The cost per team is $25.

The tournament will also offer prizes for the first three teams, the largest drive and closest-to-the-pin competition. Prizes are also available for $50. All of the proceeds from the tourney will go to the Nordhoff Rangers football team. In addition to helping the football program, the Gridiron Club also helps offset expenses and equipment for the Nordhoff Rangers football team.

For more information or to register, contact assistant coach Don Rodarte at 797-2147.

Wrec Room continues diverse offerings

Local recreation coordinator Jayden Morrison is offering summer youth flag football (above) and cheer programs. “Our camps will focus on fundamentals, developing skills and having fun while doing it,” said Morrison. The first camp will be lead by Morrison and NHS quarterback Tanner Workman. The cheer camp will be headed by Brianna Walsworth, NHS cheer captain. For more information, contact Morrison at 794-3323 or WrecRoom79@yahoo.com.

Sports Question of the Week

As a basketball player, I won an Olympic gold medal and was named MVP of an NBA all-star game. As a basketball coach I won an NCAA championship and an NBA championship. Who am I?

Correct answer: Larry Brown.

Villanova seeking softball, baseball coaches

The Villanova Preparatory School’s athletic department recently announced it is looking for new coaches in both softball and baseball. The Wildcats compete in the Frontier League in both sports. Interested candidates are encouraged to email résumés and all questions to VPS athletic director Jay Wyers at jwyers@villanovaprepper.org.

A recent Nordhoff High School graduate Pulido was interviewed by the Ojai Valley News. She talked about her time as a softball player at Nordhoff and her upcoming college career at the University of Hawaii at Hilo. Pulido expressed her love for softball and her desire to continue playing at the college level. She also mentioned her love for studying computer science.

When asked what he felt Rodarte noted Pulido’s bat as her success in her college career. “In the last two years Dani had 170 at-bats and only struck out once during that time, which is amazing. She will be successful if she continues doing what she did best,” he said.

As a Nordhoff Ranger, Pulido appeared upstairs 55 times for BB8 and hit 444 as a junior and 319 as a sophomore, 400 as a junior and then capped off her stellar career by batting 506 and added 17 home runs. With Park behind the plate, the Lady Rangers averaged over .35 losses over the last four seasons.

Democracy requires education in self-control, cooperation

BRISE GLAUDE, PhD.

Democracy, as defined by the framers of our Republic in the late 18th century, is based on the idea that individuals have the right to vote, and in so doing they are responsible for choosing the representatives that govern them. Education is the key to exercising that right, and it is essential for a functional democracy.

Some things are beyond our understanding. What is it supposed to represent? And why do we have it? And what is it all for? I am talking about voting.

For some that is probably a 50-50 chance that the thing will be voted up or down. Complicated and difficult and a lot of things are involved. It is a tough goose.
